

40 Years ago,...

... Falcon Crest had its début on CBS.

Some of the stars share their memories...

Hello! My name is David Selby, and it was my privilege to portray Richard Channing on Falcon Crest.

Now, we are celebrating the 40th anniversary of the series première.

It's all right here — on falconcrest.org! Take care.

Hey, Lorenzo Lamas here.

I just wanted to say hello to all the Falcon Crest fans out there. I'm always amazed at the longevity and the enthusiasm that you all have had for the show for so... so many years. And it was such a big part of my life, you know. Being relatively new in the industry, and what I've learned from the great veterans that I worked with on that show, you know — from Jane, of course, to David Selby, Susan Sullivan... all these wonderful talented actors and actresses that came aboard to make the show such a special show, one that will probably never again be repeated. You know, the whole style of that type of television, as you know, has just gone, and I just don't think there'll ever be a format like that — that will sustain an audience as much as Falcon Crest has been able to do that.

So I wanted to give a shoutout and a special thank-you to Thomas for putting this all together; and my wonderful cast members that I still carry in my heart — all the memories and all the wonderful experiences that we shared together. I know you're watching this, and I want to say I love you and I miss you. And I just,... I have so much joy in my heart remembering all the wonderful things that we were able to experience together.

So, best wishes from sunny southern California. I wish you all a wonderful, a wonderful experience with this anniversary special.

And take good care. Bye.

Hi! This is Ana - Alicia, and I was privileged to play Melissa on Falcon Crest and her look-alike Samantha.

So, here we are, and time is just flying by, and we are celebrating the 40th year, the 40th anniversary.

So I want to thank you, as our fans, for the incredible collaboration that we had with you. Without you, we would not have experienced the unbelievable joy to bring these characters to life. So, happy anniversary to you as well, and I look forward to seeing you on the big screen again or on the small screen, whatever screen; or just on the street. Happy anniversary! Stay safe, take good care.

Hi, This is Susan Sullivan. Maggie dead?! The hell with that last season!

Legends never die!

Celebrate the 40th anniversary of Falcon Crest with us — on falconcrest.org. Thank you.
